About Course
This course is intended to provide an introduction to basic techniques of data analysis and interpretation. A TI-83, TI-83 Plus, or TI-83 Silver Edition, calculator would be required for computations. Sections 1.1 - 1.3, 2.1 - 2.3, 3.1 - 3.3, 4.1 - 4.2, 5.1 - 5.2, 7.1 - 7.5, 8.1 - 8.2, 9.1 - 9.2 and 11.4 (time permitting) of the text will be covered, not necessarily in that order. Eduspace, an online course management system designed to accompany your textbook, will be used for homework and some online quizzes. You will be guided through the process of registration and enrolling in this course. Note that a passkey that comes with the text and the course code OMOLO-52A095508F2481 will be required to register.

Expectations

- You are required to review material before and after class.
- Regular attendance and classroom etiquette must be observed as per university policy. You will be responsible for all missed work. Make-up work will be given only with prior notification and/or a documented excuse. Otherwise after one class day a score of zero will be entered for a missed work. No quiz/homework or test grades will be dropped. However, the Final Exam grade will replace the lowest test grade.
- Dates for the class tests (in-class, closed notes/book) will be announced in due course.
- Class participation is expected and may earn extra credit.
